Hidier begins her story by describing her childhood in London. She was a shy and awkward girl who was desperate to be loved. She spent her days dreaming about boys and writing love letters to her crushes. As she got older, her obsession with boys only intensified. She became involved in a series of unhealthy relationships, each of which ended in heartbreak.

After graduating from high school, Hidier moved to the United States to attend college. She was determined to start over and leave her boy-crazy ways behind her. However, she soon found herself falling into the same old patterns. She became involved with a married man and found herself once again heartbroken.

It was only after hitting rock bottom that Hidier finally began to heal. She started seeing a therapist and began to work on her self-esteem. She also started writing, which she found to be a therapeutic outlet. Through writing, Hidier was able to process her emotions and make sense of her experiences.

Confessions of a Boy Crazy Girl is a powerful and inspiring memoir that will resonate with anyone who has ever struggled with love, loss, or self-acceptance. Hidier's story is a reminder that we are all capable of change and that it is never too late to find happiness.

Themes

The following are some of the major themes that are explored in Confessions of a Boy Crazy Girl:

- Love: Hidier's memoir is a love story in many ways. It is a story about her love for boys, for her friends, and for herself. She explores the different types of love and the ways in which love can change our lives.
- Loss: Hidier also writes about loss. She writes about the loss of her first love, the loss of her friends, and the loss of her innocence. She explores the different ways in which we grieve and the ways in which loss can help us to grow.

- Self-acceptance: Hidier's journey is also a story of self-acceptance. She learns to accept herself for who she is, flaws and all. She learns to love herself and to be happy with her own company.
- Finding your own voice: Hidier's memoir is also a celebration of the power of finding your own voice. She learns to speak her mind and to stand up for what she believes in. She learns to be herself and to be proud of who she is.
