But in recent years, the Packers have fallen on hard times. They have not won a playoff game since 2010. And they have not won a Super Bowl since 1996.

So what went wrong? How did the Packers go from being the most dominant team in the NFL to one of the worst?

There are a number of factors that have contributed to the Packers' decline. One is the aging of their roster. Aaron Rodgers is now 38 years old, and he is no longer the same player he was in his prime. Other key players, such as Davante Adams and Za'Darius Smith, have also left the team in recent years.

Another factor that has hurt the Packers is the lack of a consistent running game. The Packers have not had a 1,000-yard rusher since 2014. And they have struggled to find a reliable backup for Aaron Rodgers.

Finally, the Packers have been plagued by injuries in recent years. Aaron Rodgers has missed significant time with injuries in each of the past two seasons. And other key players, such as Davante Adams and Jaire Alexander, have also missed games due to injuries.

The Packers are still a proud franchise with a rich history. But they have a lot of work to do if they want to return to their former glory.

The Rise of the Packers

The Green Bay Packers were founded in 1919 by Curly Lambeau. The team played its first game in 1921 and joined the NFL in 1925.

The Packers quickly became one of the most dominant teams in the NFL. They won their first NFL championship in 1929. And they won four more championships in the 1930s.

The Packers continued to be a powerhouse in the 1940s and 1950s. They won three more NFL championships in the 1940s. And they won two more championships in the 1950s.

The Packers' success was due in large part to the leadership of Bart Starr. Starr was the Packers' quarterback from 1956 to 1971. He led the Packers to five NFL championships, including two Super Bowls.

The Fall of the Packers

The Packers began to decline in the 1970s. They did not win an NFL championship after 1967. And they only made the playoffs once in the 1970s.

The Packers continued to struggle in the 1980s and 1990s. They did not win a playoff game in the 1980s. And they only made the playoffs twice in the 1990s.

The Packers' fortunes finally turned around in the early 2000s. They won their first Super Bowl since 1967 in 2010. And they made the playoffs every year from 2009 to 2016.

But the Packers have struggled in recent years. They have not won a playoff game since 2010. And they have not won a Super Bowl since 1996.

The Future of the Packers

The Packers are still a proud franchise with a rich history. But they have a lot of work to do if they want to return to their former glory.

The Packers need to get younger and healthier. They also need to find a more consistent running game. And they need to find a reliable backup for Aaron Rodgers.

If the Packers can make these changes, they have the potential to be a contender again. They have a great quarterback in Aaron Rodgers. And they have a lot of young talent on their roster.

The Packers are not going to give up easily. They are one of the most storied franchises in NFL history. And they are determined to return to their former glory.
