Joining the Galactic Empire

In the years following the Clone Wars, Thrawn encountered the Galactic Empire and recognized its potential as a force capable of bringing order to the galaxy. Believing that the Ascendancy's isolationist policies were holding it back, he made the daring decision to join the Empire, offering his services to Emperor Palpatine.

He recognized the Rebels' determination and the growing power of the Force within their ranks. While he remained committed to his mission of serving the Empire, he also saw the potential for the Force to shape the destiny of the galaxy.

Thrawn's understanding of the Force extended beyond his military campaigns. He was fascinated by its mysteries and the role it played in the lives of Jedi and Sith alike.
